The Jefferson is All About Their Male Guests With This One-on-One Savile Row Bespoke Tailoring Package

This winter, The Jefferson will be partnering with Kathryn Sargent, Savile Row's first female head of bespoke tailoring, to bring the best of London menswear to DC. The hotel's new package, Tailored Weekends, can include a series of specialized experiences including behind-the-scenes tours of local museums and historical institutions, a private night tour of the Washington's monuments, a luxury exotic car rental to explore the city, and a tasting dinner at the five-star Plume restaurant. The package is tailored to guest's personal preferences.

Of course it wouldn't be a truly "tailored" weekend without a little bespoke suiting. Guests that stay between February 25-28, will receive a special one-on-one fitting session with Sargent in the comfort of their suite. During the consultation, sip on a selection wine tastings—chosen to reflect the theme of the suite's décor—while discussing your new customized wardrobe.

Rates for the package start at $715 per night, and must be booked at least one week in advance.
